

The document is the output. The process is the product.

Most lenders already have a tool that produces compliant docs. But that was never the problem, the process of creating them was broken. GoDocs is the software company that fixed it. simplifies the complex process of generating C&I loan documents with speed, accuracy, and built-in compliance. Lenders can close more deals efficiently while reducing legal risks and costs.

The problem with legacy tools

They mistake the output for the problem

Built around templates, not workflows. The result is manual re-entry, package rebuilding, and waiting on outside counsel, every friction point a deal slowing at the finish line.

The GoDocs difference

A software company built around the workflow

We integrate directly with your LOS, replace the fragmented process legacy tools left behind, and produce attorney-grade compliant documents as the natural output.

Five benefits of working with a software company

LOS Integrations

No re-entry. No copy-paste. Your team never leaves their existing workflow.

Automated compliance

Regulatory changes reflect automatically. You're never closing on outdated documents.

Flexibility, documents are assembled per deal

Generate complete commercial and industrial packages in minutes without legal bottlenecks.

Expert lending support

You stop budgeting for outside counsel and start treating documentation as a predictable operating cost.

Cloud native

No installation, no migration. Grow volume without growing your team.

The process stops being the burden your team carries.

For banks, credit unions, and lenders ready to modernize. GoDocs believes modernizing the workflow is how you win in commercial lending.
